We are excited to report that a gift from the Eugene and Marcia Applebaum Family Foundation has enabled us to take a big step forward in preserving and accessing Detroit survivor oral histories. Many stories will now be digitized so that they can be included in the USC Shoah Foundation "IWitness" Project. The digitization allows those who visit the Shoah site to search the testimonies by location, family member names and many other key words.

We all know the power of the spoken word, and to hear the survivors share their stories often leaves listeners speechless. How many times have we seen tears in the eyes of HMC guests, as they listen to the words of our survivors? Through this gift, people everywhere will be able to have a similar experience, one that opens eyes, hearts and minds.

Consider a survivor like Erna Gorman and the impact of her story. She and her family hid from the Germans for years, unable to leave their bunker or "tomb," as she calls it. She watched her mother die before her very eyes, and was shaken and unable to speak. Somehow she and some family members managed to survive. However, upon returning to their native France they were greeted with shouts of "Dirty Jew" from neighborhood children. Mrs. Gorman learned an important truth that day and it has stayed with her throughout her life. In her words, "Those children were not born with hatred and prejudices. They picked it up from their parents and people around them. That's why I speak out against prejudice and hatred."

And that is why we at the HMC are so grateful to the Applebaum Family Foundation for its generous gift. It allows people from all over the world to feel the words of survivors from our own community in ways that are more powerful than anyone might imagine. Mrs. Gorman’s pain and her desire to promote tolerance through education will continue to shed light on hatred and bigotry for years to come, thanks to our partnership with the Shoah Foundation and the generosity of the Applebaum Family Foundation. It is our hope and the hope of the Applebaum family that their gift will inspire others to support the HMC in ways that are meaningful to them.

HMC Launched New Strategic Plan

with Rabbi Eli Mayerfeld at Helm

We are pleased to announce the completion of our new Strategic Plan, and the resulting mission statement is clear: we are to engage, to educate and to empower by remembering the Holocaust.

Through our successful efforts, we envision a world in which people take responsible action.

Volunteer Corner

Annie Steinmetz and Dr. Vicki Adler

Volunteers at the Holocaust Memorial Center not only provide an invaluable service to our museum and community, but often form lasting friendships with one another.

When docent Vicki Adler sat next to Museum Shop volunteer Annie Steinmetz at the Volunteer Thank You Brunch, it was a start to a long friendship and the end of a lifelong mystery. Through conversation, they discovered that Annie lived only 15 minutes away from Saarburg, Germany, where Vicki’s mother-in-law Elise Adler lived before WWII.

Vicki told Annie how Elise had escaped four months before the war started, but left many questions behind: What happened to her family? Vicki shared her experience of traveling to Saarburg in 2004 to find answers, while knowing only the name of the city and a house number. Although able to visit the town, she learned nothing about Elise’s parents or younger sister.

When Annie heard Vicki’s story, she wanted to help. Annie asked her mother Ruth to get involved, and after a number of phone calls the information began to arrive. Vicki learned that Elise’s parents and sister were forced from their home one month after Elise got out of Germany. They were deported to the Lodz ghetto and murdered in Chelmno.

The Adlers appreciate that Annie and Ruth helped them fill in some of the blank spaces in their family history. The Adlers are now planning to travel to Saarburg in 2018 to visit the Steinmetzes and to see Elise’s home. There they also will see the “Stumbling Blocks” imbedded in front that are engraved with details of Elise’s family’s lives and deaths.

Annie and Vicki are models for people reaching out to repair the world, and who in return have found a lifelong friendship.

Inspiring the Next Generation to Take Action

The geographic diversity of our visitors is astounding! In 2016, school groups visited from these Michigan counties (shown in dark blue):

Thanks to your support, students from all over Michigan are learning why they must fight prejudice and stand up for the rights of others.

The lessons of the Holocaust are as relevant today as ever, inspiring a new generation to strive for a better world.

On May 10, 2017, we held the award ceremony for our first annual Kappy Family Anne Frank Art & Writing Competition. We received 180+ entries from Oakland County 8th-12th graders, who submitted written or artistic interpretations of the power of one person to make a difference, based on

The May 10 Awards Ceremony
Inspiring the Next Generation to Anne Frank’s quote, “How wonderful it is that nobody need wait a single moment before starting to improve the world.”

The winning artwork and writing were displayed in a gallery adjacent to our Viola and Garry Kappy Anne Frank Tree Exhibit and Garden, featuring a sapling from the chestnut tree that grew outside Anne Frank’s hiding place. They also can be seen on our website at bit.ly/2xgrY3T. A big thank you to Holocaust survivor Garry Kappy and his family for making all of this possible!

Dear Holocaust Memorial Center,

My students were extraordinarily moved. As a teacher, I touch the lives of many students each year. What you have taught will be learned not only by the students who visited today, but by hundreds of others who will pass through my classroom. I will ask the questions that I hope will lead them to nurture tolerance, love and hope in their hearts, and I will encourage them to stand up for anyone who needs their support.

With love and gratitude,

Mrs. Holly Cassler

Artifacts: Oh, the Stories They Can Tell!

The Holocaust Memorial Center is the repository of numerous Holocaust artifacts. They often have fascinating backgrounds from which we can learn important historical and ethical lessons. Holocaust survivors Nathan, of blessed memory, and Sonia Nothman recently donated their Ex-Concentration Camp ID cards, dated January 1946 and October 1945. In order for displaced persons to receive benefits, such as a place to live, food rations and transportation out of Germany, a survivor had to be registered as a bonafide displaced person. What is truly eye-opening in these particular documents is the "Reason for Arrest": Jew and Jewess!

Another item with a little-known story is a pair of bookends given by Rabbi Joseph Hertz, Chief Rabbi of England, to Levi Taylor. Taylor was a German Jewish circus owner who travelled throughout Europe. As the situation in Europe deteriorated, Taylor would allow Jews to hide in the hay or to disguise themselves as clowns and use his travel visas as they travelled through Europe and across the English Channel. Rabbi Hertz gave Taylor the pair of bookends, which are of German origin, as acknowledgement of his bravery and selflessness. The bookends were handed down to his grandson Jack Taylor, who graciously donated them to us. The circus was eventually sold to Ed Bailey of Barnum and Bailey fame.

A mysterious piece of jewelry was donated to the HMC by a family who received it from Walter Kabarowski, a Polish freedom fighter who was imprisoned in Dachau. In Dachau, Kabarowski befriended a Jewish jeweler who gave him a handmade gold locket to deliver to his infant daughter, whom he left behind, in case he did not survive the camp. The inscription on the locket is a quote from a Polish poet which reads, "Every place I was forced to be, I left part of my soul as a gift to you." Kabarowski came to Detroit and passed away in 1992 without ever locating the child’s whereabouts. This locket remains a symbol of a father’s love for his child from whom he was brutally and permanently separated.

Board Members Making a Difference

o much of the good work we do at the Holocaust Memorial Center is a direct result of the dedication of our caring volunteers. I’m proud to share the far-reaching work of two of our Board Members, Dr. Edward Malinowski and Dr. Nelson (Nick) Hersh.

Dr. Malinowski recently became a Survivor Speaker, building upon his years of service as an HMC Board Member. It is difficult for Dr. Malinowski and many of his fellow HMC Survivor Speakers to share their stories, but their selflessness allows thousands of young people each year to hear a first-hand account of survival and hope in the darkest time. Dr. Malinowski is one of the very few survivors of the Warsaw Ghetto. Almost all of his family, including his father, perished in the Warsaw Ghetto and Treblinka. He and his mother escaped from the Ghetto and survived the war by moving from place to place in Poland until the Russian liberation in 1945. Dr. Malinowski spent the remainder of his childhood in war-ravaged Poland and was able to finish medical school as well as become an accomplished violinist. In 1969, he was forced by a wave of government-sponsored antisemitism to emigrate, and he arrived in America. After additional training at Sinai Hospital of Detroit, he established a cardiology practice. His story helps the HMC to educate the next generation about the critical need to stand up to hatred, antisemitism and genocide.

Dr. Hersh and his wife Sue will be honored at our upcoming 33rd Anniversary Dinner on November 5. Dr. Hersh, an orthodontist, volunteers as an English teacher for a few weeks
each year in Dobczyze, Poland.
Over the past few years, he has developed a relationship with the people of Dobczyze and has been welcomed by them as family. The education Dr. Hersh gives is not limited to language; he teaches them how similar we all are,
destroying preconceived notions
they may have about Americans or Jews. He also funds yearly trips for his students to Auschwitz, which is an hour drive away from Dobczyze.

During his most recent trip, Dr. Hersh looked deeper into the Jewish community of Dobczyze, which had been murdered in the Holocaust.
Though so much of Jewish life had been wiped away, one of the townpeople showed him the mikva (ritual bath). It is dilapidated after having been burned, with only three walls standing. Dr. Hersh is currently working on making this a historic landmark in order to preserve it.

Thank you to Doctors Malinowski and Hersh and all of the HMC’s Board Members, Survivor Speakers and other wonderful volunteers for carrying forward the HMC’s mission to engage, educate and empower by remembering the Holocaust.
