

The Detroit News

Exhibit focuses on WWII massacre of Soviet Ukraine Jews

<http://www.detroitnews.com/story/news/local/oakland-county/2016/06/14/exhibit-massacre-jews-holocaust-museum/85862852/>

10:43 a.m. EDT June 14, 2016

Farmington Hills — An exhibition focused on the massacre of Jews in Soviet Ukraine during World War II is going on display in suburban Detroit.

“Holocaust by Bullets, Yahad-In Unum — 10 Years of Investigations” opens to the public Wednesday at the Holocaust Memorial Center Zekelman Family Campus.

The exhibit is based on the work of French Catholic Priest Patrick Desbois, who canvassed Ukrainian villages on a quest to identify mass graves of Jews shot by Nazi soldiers and their collaborators during the Holocaust. The campaign began after Germany invaded the Soviet Union.

In a statement, Desbois says “it is important for everyone to experience and learn from these crimes because the world is still consumed with the disease of genocide.”

The exhibit runs through Dec. 30.