

Global Issues

History is always more relevant when connected to current events.

Use these websites for information about the effects of war on children involved in conflicts around the world today. Have your students compare the experiences of these children to those of the children on the Kindertransport. Is the world reacting the same way to the plight of these children today as it did to the children who were sent on the Kindertransport? Are countries offering to take them in and care for the children involved in the wars in Darfur and Sudan and the Congo?
